OH: 208 Joseph Hall, TR 9:30-11:30am, W 1-3pm, and by appointment

Materials/Text Book (required): Miller, Economics Today: The Micro View 19th edition. This course also requires a non-graphing, scientific calculator to be used during exams.

Course Objective: Develop and use economic tools and intuition to investigate and understand the relevance of economics in business and the world around us. Examine the concept of the firm and the way it operates in the economy.

Attendance: Attendance will be taken and documented on Canvas. Regular class attendance is mandatory and is essential in order to learn the material of this course. You are responsible for all material presented in class, whether you are present or not. After your second absence, your final homework grade will be reduced by 10% per absence. To avoid distracting others it is requested to be in the class on time and not leave it before it is ended.

Grading: The entire grade for the course will be weighted as follows: Homework (10%), Quizzes (15%), Exam 1 (25%), Exam 2 (25%), Final Exam (25%).

Final Grades will be based on the following guidelines:

A: 93 A-: 90 B+: 87 B: 83 B-: 80 C+: 77 C: 73 C-: 70 D+: 67 D: 63 D-: 60 F: below 60

Schedule: The following dates are tentative and subject to change, but plan on the following:
Exam 1 (Th Oct 3rd), Exam 2 (Th Nov 14th), Final (Th Dec 12th 9am).

Exams: All exams are closed book. The final exam is cumulative. Students who wish to appeal an exam grade must do so within 24 hours of the time the graded exam is returned and need to ask for an appointment with me to discuss the issue. Make-up exams will not be provided. If an exam is missed, students must provide sufficient evidence/documentation that his or her absence is excusable. If you know ahead of time that you will be missing an exam, notice must be provided one week in advance of the scheduled exam date. In such approved circumstances, 12.5% will be added to the grade weight of the other exam and 12.5% will be added to the grade weight of the final exam. Missing two scheduled exams will result in an F for the course.

Quizzes: Starting the week of September 10th students should expect to take an online quiz once a week. The quizzes will be administered on MyEconLab, will be completed anytime from Monday to Thursday's start of class, and will cover material from previous class lectures. The lowest quiz grade will be dropped so students will not have an opportunity to make up a missed quiz.

Participation/Current Events: Once a week students need to come to class ready to describe to the class a recent article from a print or online publication (NY Times, ESPN.com, etc.) relating to economics. The article assignment will be provided by me on Canvas (due dates will be defined during class, but will likely occur every Tuesday starting September 10th). The student should summarize the content of the article and describe to the class how it relates to economics and/or any specific recent class material.

The class will have a short discussion regarding the articles where participation may be required. I will call on students randomly each week. If you are not present or didn't read the article and can't provide the above information, your final homework grade in the class will be reduced by 10%. Assigned readings are part of the material that will be covered on quizzes and exams.

Homework: Homework will be assigned, collected, and graded on MyEconLab. Doing the homework problems will help you on the exams and quizzes.

Course Topics: Topics may include, but are not limited to the following:

Ch 1: Nature of Economics

Ch 2: Scarcity and Trade-Offs

Ch 3: Demand and Supply

Ch 4: Demand and Supply Extensions
